- The Government of Meghalaya plans to adopt best practices from Telangana's Integrated Command and Control Centre (IC&CC) to modernise governance and improve public service delivery.
- The IC&CC integrates data from multiple departments on a single platform, enabling real-time monitoring, inter-departmental coordination, and faster administrative decision-making.
- The initiative is expected to strengthen technology-driven governance, improve emergency response, and enhance the efficiency of citizen services.

Lesson for Assam

- Assam can develop a state-level integrated command centre by linking departments such as disaster management, police, transport, health, urban development, and public utilities, thereby enabling data-driven governance, quicker emergency response, and improved service delivery.
