

Purul (Hiimai) Paoki Festival – Traditional Agricultural Festival of Manipur

Purul (Hiimai) Paoki Festival is a traditional festival celebrated in Purul village of Senapati district, Manipur. The festival showcases age-old farming practices, indigenous traditions and the collective spirit of rural community life.

The celebration attracts people from different parts of the region and highlights the cultural importance of agriculture in tribal society. Through traditional rituals, performances and community participation, the festival preserves local heritage and strengthens social unity.

APSC Relevance: North-East culture, tribal traditions and agricultural festivals.