Spain won the 2026 FIFA World Cup, defeating defending champions Argentina 1–0 after extra time in the final. Ferran Torres scored the decisive goal in the 106th minute, while Argentina played with 10 men after Enzo Fernández was sent off shortly before the end of normal time.

The victory secured Spain’s second FIFA World Cup title and reaffirmed its status among world football’s leading nations. The triumph also highlighted Spain’s dominance after winning the European Championship, completing another major international success.

APSC Relevance: Sports; International Events.