

Three Saudi Cities Added to UNESCO's Global Network of Learning Cities

International Affairs & Education

UNESCO has included Riyadh, AlUla, and Riyadh Al-Khabra in its 2025 Global Network of Learning Cities (GNLC) list, expanding Saudi Arabia's presence in this international initiative.

The GNLC is a UNESCO-led network recognising cities that foster lifelong learning for all age groups through inclusive, accessible, and sustainable learning environments. Member cities commit to strengthening education systems, community learning, skills development, and lifelong learning policies.

APSC relevance: Useful for global educational initiatives, UNESCO programmes, and sustainable urban learning frameworks.
